Nicole Fleshin is a singer-songwriter from Bradford, Ontario. Frequently compared to Avril Lavigne, Stevie Nicks, and Nancy Wilson, her edgy and energetic repertoire pulls strongly from both pop, and rock genres, with the intrigue of alternative music. With exploring themes of trust, self love, forgiveness, growth, and standing up for what you believe in, Nicole constructs the narrative of her life, and embraces wisdom through her music.

Passionate, bold vocals and heartfelt lyrics, coupled with self expression are captured in her debut single, Not for Me. “I find myself in places where I give so much of myself, time, and energy for people and I forget that I deserve the same energy back, Not for Me talks about letting go and doing what is best for me. People come and go in life, but music has always healed me and been there for me. Whether I’m listening to my favorite song or picking up the guitar - it always has empowered me, and it has made me find confidence within myself. I was bullied as a kid, and turned to music to process how I was feeling - that was my first song, and it forged my connection to this craft.”

Following, In January of 2022, Nicole released the music video for her song, Not for Me. Which featured a performing arts theater, Smile Group Canada. The song was released on streaming platforms, and the video has over a thousand views on Youtube and has recently gotten 1400+ Streams on Spotify with 115 monthly listeners.

Now fully expressing herself on Tiktok, Nicole is building a buzz on social media with +1400 followers, and remains active on Instagram and Tiktok. As a member of the Canadian Musicians Cooperative during the past summers she performs community engaged performances three times a week in local Barrie areas. This summer, she performed in the Canadian Musicians Cooperative Showcase 2023 that was played in Bradford’s Carrot Festival, Meridian place in Barrie and Opera House in Orillia. Nicole is recording and developing a release plan for a new EP to be released in 2025 and is booking shows to promote new music while still engaging with fans and continuing to write more music. As well as finding different ways to personally connect with fans in engaging ways, Nicole is most excited to express herself through her performances, share her music, and create fan engaging moments to remember forever.
